Welcome

The Allapattah Flats natural area is included within the Indian River Lagoon South Restoration Plan, which is a component of the Comprehensive Everglades Restoration Plan. The property is jointly owned by Martin County and the South Florida Water Management District. The Natural Resources Conservation Service holds a conservation easement over much of the property, and is providing funding through the Wetlands Reserve Program for the restoration of the site. Public use of the area is managed by the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC). While you are enjoying your time on the property, keep in mind that seasonal hunting is allowed. Please refer to the FWC brochure for area regulations and hunt dates.
